1 About your HP StoreOnce Backup system

HP StoreOnce 4900 Backup is a deduplicated storage appliance for backing up host network servers or PCs to target devices or the appliance. These devices are configured as VTL Store, Virtual Tape Library or StoreOnce Catalyst Store targets for backup applications.

The base system consists of a host server unit, a disk enclosure and a TU supporting shelf to install below the system. It is compatible with all HP standard racks and is suitable from 11 to 140 disks.

To find out which backup applications are compatible with HP StoreOnce functions go to www.hp.com/go/rio.

For further information about configuring and using backup target devices, see the HP StoreOnce Backup User Guide that can be accessed from the CD supplied with your product.

HP StoreOnce 4900 Capacity Expansion

One disk enclosure must be installed at the same time as the host server unit. It contains 48 TB of pre-configured storage and four hot spare disks.

There are two options for further expanding storage:

- HP000A - HP StoreOnce 4900 48TB Capacity Expansion
Four one packs of eleven 15 disks, that may be added to the original disk enclosure until all disk bays are full. A maximum of five of these kits may be used with each enclosure.
- HP000B - HP StoreOnce 4900 96TB Capacity Expansion
Once the original disk enclosure is full, one further disk enclosure may be purchased and connected to the system. This disk enclosure contains eleven 15 disks and four hot spare disks. Storage in this shelf may also be expanded using up to five of the HP000A expansion kits.

2 Retrieve your license entitlement certificates (if purchased)

License(s) is used to enable optional product functionality, such as online disk capacity, Replication, Catalyst or Security features.

For online disk capacity the appropriate license entitlement Certificate is supplied with the Capacity Expansion kit. This is a paper document that contains all the information you need to obtain your unique license for the kit. The Entitlement Certificate are shipped in clearly marked mail envelopes with your HP StoreOnce Backup system. These are valuable items so, to prevent them becoming lost, please ensure they are identified and put safely in one safe during unpacking.

Entitlement certificates for iSCSI Addressable Nodes are also supplied with the HP StoreOnce Backup system.

It is strongly recommended that all licenses are returned as soon as possible. Go to the Information site www.hp.com for information about returning licenses, refer to the HP StoreOnce Installation and Configuration Guide or the StoreOnce CD.

NOTE: There is also an optional on license three (limited to 10 days). This allows you to try out full functionality (including online capacity) before paying for a full license.

NOTE: Licenses are locked to a specific appliance using the serial number that can be found on the StoreOnce management GUI, or printed on a label on the appliance.

3 Install the rack rails, unit(s) and TU support shelf

The recommendation is to install the disk enclosure below the host server unit, and the base unit there should be at the bottom of the rack. Make sure there is 20 cm clearance to the right of the rack in order to allow full access to hard drive bays in drawer 3.

Refer to your rack documentation and to the documents on the HP StoreOnce Backup CD for detailed instructions, including safety information, about working with racks.

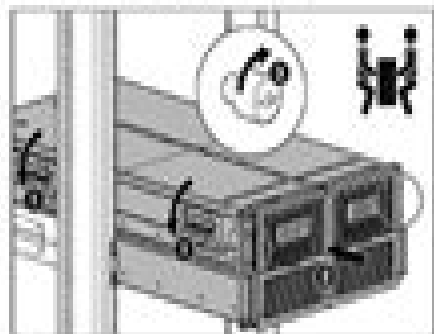

CAUTION: Use extreme caution when installing and pulling with from the racks. They can slip and fall, causing damage to the HP StoreOnce Backup system or injury. HP is not responsible for any damage or injury caused by the misinstalling of the HP StoreOnce Backup system.

WARNING: The disk enclosure with no drive installed weighs 71.50 kg (157.55 lb). With all drives and components installed, the enclosure can weigh up to 141.00 kg (310.86 lb). To reduce the risk of personal injury or damage to the equipment:

- Observe local occupational health and safety requirements and guidelines for manual material handling.
- Use caution and get help to lift and install the disk enclosure during installation or removal, especially when the disk enclosure is not balanced in the rack.

WARNING: Always use at least two people to lift an enclosure into the rack. If the enclosure is being loaded into the rack above chest level, a third person must assist with aligning the enclosure with the rack while the other two people support the weight of the enclosure.

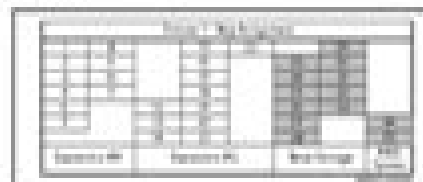

- Install the rails, locking nuts and securing brackets as illustrated on the online type.
- Install the TU support shelf immediately below the location of the disk enclosure.
- Do not remove the base storage disks because the storage has been pre-configured and respects:
Drawer one (left): Two spare hot disks in bays 04 and 05 and eleven disks in bays 00-03
Drawer two (right): Two spare hot disks in bays 04 and 05
- Install the disk enclosure, making sure to tighten the thumb screws to secure the unit to the rack.

1. Install the base server unit

Installing additional disks in the disk enclosure
Once the disk enclosure is installed, install all additional capacity expansion kits purchased with the product. Install the pre-configured storage. The storage must be formatted, formatted and added to the configuration before it is available for use. Refer to the printed guide supplied with the capacity expansion kit for detailed installation instructions.

It is very important to distribute hard disks in the correct disk bay within each drawer, as shown on the disk enclosure labels, see below, and to lift off bays in the first enclosure before installing a second one.
