Practiceopolis: Stories from the Architectural Profession Yasser Megahed, 2020-07-30 This is a graphic novel about the contemporary architectural profession in which it acts as the protagonist in the form of an imaginary city called Practiceopolis The novel narrates quasi realistic stories that exaggerate the architectural everyday and the tacit in order to make them prominent and tangible They depict and dramatise the value conflicts between the different cultures of practising architecture and between the architectural profession and other members of the building industry as political conflicts around the future of Practiceopolis The book uses the metaphorical world of Practiceopolis to provoke big questions about everyday routines in the profession that practitioners may take for granted and to examine different ideologies at work among architects and other members of the construction industry The novel ends in the tradition of dystopian worlds common in a certain strand of graphic novels By vividly illustrating and narrating the critical issues he interrogates the author has created a world which any architect student or professional will both instantly recognise and simultaneously reject provoking the reader to challenge themselves and the profession at large

The Supermarket of the Visible Peter Szendy, 2019-04-02 Already in 1929 Walter Benjamin described a one hundred per cent image space Such an image space saturates our world now more than ever constituting the visibility in which we live The Supermarket of the Visible analyzes this space and the icons that populate it as the culmination of a history of the circulation and general commodification of images and gazes From the first elevators and escalators tracking shots avant la lettre to cinema the great conductor of gazes all the way down to contemporary eye tracking techniques that monitor the slightest saccades of our eyes Peter Szendy offers an entirely novel theory of the intersection of the image and economics The Supermarket of the Visible elaborates an economy proper to images icons in other words an iconomy Deleuze caught a glimpse of this when he wrote that money is the back side of all the images that cinema shows and edits on the front Since cinema for Deleuze is synonymous with universe Szendy argues that this sentence must be understood in its broadest dimension and that a reading of key works in the history of cinema allows us a unique vantage point upon the reverse of images their monetary implications Paying close attention to sequences in Hitchcock Bresson Antonioni De Palma and The Sopranos Szendy shows how cinema is not a uniquely commercial art form among other purer arts but more fundamentally helps to elaborate what might be called with Bataille a general iconomy Moving deftly and lightly between political economy aesthetic theory and popular movies and television The Supermarket of the Visible will be a necessary book for anyone concerned with media philosophy politics or visual culture

Ceilings and Dreams Paul Emmons, Federica Goffi, Jodi La Coe, 2019-07-08 Where is the space for dreaming in the twenty first century Lofty thoughts like dreams are born and live overhead just as they have been represented in Renaissance paintings and modern cartoons Ceilings are often repositories of stories events and otherwise invisible oneiric narratives Yet environments that inspire innovative thinking are dwindling as our world confronts enormous challenges and almost all of our thinking debating and decision making takes place under endless ceiling grids Quantitative research establishes that spaces with taller ceilings elicit broader more creative thoughts Today ceilings are usually squat conduits of technology they have become the blind spot of modern architecture The twenty essays in this book look across cultures places and ceilings over time to discover their potential to uplift the human spirit Not just one building element among many the ceiling is a key to unlock the architectural imagination Ceilings and Dreams aims to correct this blind spot and encourages architects and designers researchers and students to look up through writings organized into three expansive categories reveries suspensions and inversions The contributors contemplate the architecture of levity and the potential of the ceiling once again as a place for dreaming

Bad New Days Hal Foster, 2015-09-29 One of the world's leading art theorists dissects a quarter century of artistic practice Bad New Days examines the evolution of art and criticism in Western Europe and North America over the last twenty five years exploring their dynamic relation to the general condition of emergency instilled by neoliberalism and the war on terror Considering the work of artists such as Thomas Hirschhorn Tacita Dean and Isa Genzken and the writing of thinkers like Jacques Rancière Bruno Latour and Giorgio Agamben Hal Foster shows the ways in which art has anticipated this condition at times resisting the collapse of the social contract or gesturing toward its repair at other times burlesquing it Against the claim that art making has become so heterogeneous as to defy historical analysis Foster argues that the critic must still articulate a clear account of the contemporary in all its complexity To that end he offers several paradigms for the art of recent years which he terms abject archival mimetic and precarious

Posthuman Urbanism Debra Benita Shaw, 2017-10-24 The World Health Organisation estimates that by 2030 six out of every ten people in the world will live in a city But what does it mean to inhabit the city in the twenty first century Posthuman Urbanism evaluates the relevance and usefulness of posthuman theory to understanding the urban subject and its conditions of possibility It argues that contemporary science and technology is radically changing the way that we understand our bodies and that understanding ourselves as posthuman offers new insights into urban inequalities By analysing the relationship between the biological sciences and cities from the nineteenth century onward as it is expressed in architecture popular culture and case studies of contemporary insurgent practices a case is made for posthuman urbanism as a significant concept for changing the meaning of urban space It answers the question of how we can change ourselves to change the way we live with others both human and non human in a rapidly urbanising world

Monumental cares Mechtild Widrich,2023-01-31 Monumental cares rethinks monument debates site specificity and art activism in light of problems that strike us as monumental or overwhelming such as war migration and the climate crisis The book shows how artists address these issues from Chicago and Berlin to Oslo Bucharest and Hong Kong in media ranging from marble and glass to postcards graffiti and re enactment A multidirectional theory of site does justice to specific places but also to how far away audiences see them What emerges is a new ethics of care in public art combined with a passionate engagement with reality harking back to the realist aesthetics of the nineteenth century Familiar questions can be answered anew what to do with monuments particularly when they are the products of terror and require removal modification or recontextualisation And can art address the monumental concerns of our present The Return of the Contemporary

Nicolás Campisi,2024-12-17 In The Return of the Contemporary Nicol s Campisi combines the fields of post dictatorship studies and environmental humanities to analyze Latin American cultural production in the neoliberal age Each chapter pairs two authors from different parts of Latin America and the Caribbean who create a common vocabulary in which to frame the various crises of the region s present and recent past such as climate change forced migration the collapse of state institutions and the afterlives of slavery By situating his argument at the intersection of ecocritical and environmental humanities affect studies and the politics of memory and postmemory Campisi presents new comparative methods to show how Latin America s neoliberal crisis prompted significant changes in how the novel as a form imagines a different future

Outrage Ian Nairn,2025-03-04 Acclaimed architectural critic Ian Nairn s masterpiece reissued for the first time since 1955 In June of 1955 The Architectural Review Britain s most acclaimed and well read magazine of architectural criticism published a special issue featuring one essay called Outrage by Ian Nairn As one of Britain s most famously opinionated and untrained architectural critics it came as no surprise that the issue opened with a prophecy of doom that if what is called development is allowed to multiply at the present rate then all can be expected is the subsequent loss of the individuality and spirit of Britain s natural and urban landscapes Nairn coined this phenomenon Subtopia and demonstrated it throughout the issue with mugshots of offending lampposts arterial roads and garrotted trees For the first time in North America and the first time in decades in the UK Nairn s influential essay is newly available now in a handsome volume complete with the original images Big Mall Kate Black,2024-02-13 A phenomenology of the mall If the mall makes us feel bad why do we
