The Transformation of Chinese Socialism Chun Lin, 2006 A significant contribution to both political theory and China studies this volume provides a critical assessment of the past and future Chinese socialism

China's Mongols at University Zhenzhou Zhao, Wing On Lee, 2010-04-09 Minority students in China often receive preferential treatment for access to universities However very little is known about minority student experiences and perceptions on campus after they are accorded what's called meaningful access to university The Mongols emerged as a distinct ethnic group in China starting in the 11th century and in the centuries that followed conquered a large part of the world However in modern times this nomadic people's influence has declined and even their survival in China has been threatened This decline is evidenced by the fact that increasing numbers of Mongols have abandoned their native language and traditional customs especially those who live in cities How do Mongol university students who form the backbone of the Mongol intellectual community identify themselves in a modern Chinese context How do they react as university students to the way in which their culture is recognized and represented Do Mongol students suffer from injustice in the cultural dimension of campus life China's Mongols at University Contesting Cultural Recognition seeks to answer these questions Zhenzhou Zhao addresses these issues by comparing the university discourse on minority culture policy institutional structure and daily life and the Mongol student discourse concerning their experiences perceptions of recognition and dedication to self representation on campus Additionally Gao compares three universities in

China Located in Inner Mongolia Autonomous Region Beijing and Hubei Province respectively each of these universities represents one of three types of higher education accessible to minority students in China universities located in ethnic areas standard universities and universities for nationalities China's Mongols at University explores and discusses an intrinsic connection between marketization and globalization and the disadvantages faced by minority groups This book argues that China must move from a policy of preferential treatment

Practicing Citizenship in Contemporary China Sophia Woodman, Zhonghua Guo, 2020-04-02 This book examines citizenship as practiced in China today from a variety of angles Citizenship in China and elsewhere in the Global South has often been perceived as either a distorted echo of the real democratic version in Europe and North America or an orientalized other that defines what citizenship is not By contrast this book sees Chinese citizenship as an aspect of a connected modernity that is still unfolding The book focuses on three key tensions a state preference for sedentarism and governing citizens in place vs growing mobility sometimes facilitated by the state a perception that state building and development requires a strong state vs ideas and practices of participatory citizenship and submission of the individual to the collective state community village family etc vs the rising salience of conceptions of self development and self making projects Examining manifestations of these tensions can contribute to thinking about citizenship beyond China including the role of the local in forming citizenship orders how individualization works in the absence of liberal individualism and how social citizenship is increasingly becoming a reward to good citizens rather than a mechanism for achieving citizen equality This book was originally published as a Special Issue of the journal Citizenship Studies

China's New Underclass Xinying Hu, 2013-07-03 This book examines the implications of China's economic reforms for domestic work and domestic workers The author examines the factors that give rise to paid domestic work in a socialist economy and goes on to look at the need for social protection of domestic workers within cities in contemporary China Using a socialist feminist approach the book investigates how China's economic restructuring has deliberately crafted a domestic service sector from the top down Through the analysis of the situation of paid domestic labour it demonstrates how the changes in socialist ideology under a market economy have justified the state's support for paid domestic labour the large role of the state in these ideological changes and how domestic labour is related to economic changes and the market economy itself The book argues that state's economic reforms have changed gender and class relations in Chinese society Based on interviews with domestic workers their employers their social advocates and government officials this book examines the economic and social security of domestic workers and provides information about their precarious working conditions that could be improved through public policy It also explores women's agency and activism and the current role of NGOs and trade unions in labour protection

Democratization and Identity Susan J. Henders, 2004-01-01 The notable contributors to Democratization and Identity introduce the experiences of East and Southeast Asia into the study of democratization in ethnically including religiously diverse societies This collection suggests that the risk of ethnicized conflict exclusion or hierarchy during democratization depends in large part on the nature of the ethnic identities and relations constituted during authoritarian rule This volume s theoretical breakthroughs and its country case studies shed light on the prospects for ethnically inclusive and non hierarchical democratization across East and Southeast Asia and beyond Global Inequality David Held, Ayse Kaya, 2007-01-05 What is global inequality How can it be measured What are the major trends Addressing these questions this book examines the major issues that need to be confronted in conceptualising measuring and analysing patterns of global inequality It explores the implications of these patterns for politics and public policy Between Families and Institutions Zhiying Ma, 2024-03-28 In contemporary China people diagnosed with serious mental illnesses have long been placed under the guardianship of close relatives who decide on their hospitalization and treatment. Despite attempts at reforms to ensure patient rights, the 2013 Mental Health Law reinforced the family's rights and responsibilities. In Between Families and Institutions, Zhiying Ma examines how ideological, institutional, and technological processes shape families' complicated involvement in psychiatric care. Drawing on extensive ethnographic fieldwork in psychiatric hospitals, community mental health teams, social work centers, and family support groups, as well as interviews with policymakers and activists, Ma maps the workings of what she calls biopolitical paternalism, a mode of governance that sees vulnerable individuals as sources of risk, frames risk management as the state's paternalistic intervention, and shifts responsibilities for care and management onto families. Ma outlines the ethical tensions, intimate vulnerabilities, in households and health disparities across the population that biopolitical paternalism produces. By exploring these implications, Ma demonstrates the myriad ways biopower enables, inhibits, and transforms medical care in China.

The Politics of Self-Expression Markus Daechsel, 2006-09-27 The 1930s to 1950s witnessed the rise and dominance of a political culture across much of North India, which combined unprecedented levels of mobilization and organization with an effective depoliticization of politics. On the one hand, obsessed with world events, people also came to understand politics as a question of personal morality and achievement. In other words, politics was about expressing the self in new ways and about finding and securing an imaginary home in a fast-moving and often terrifying universe. The scope and arguments of this book make an innovative contribution to the historiography of modern South Asia by focusing on the middle-class milieu, which was the epicentre of this new political culture.

From Teach For America to Teach For China Sara Lam, 2019-11-13 This book examines the role of Teach For China in addressing educational equity and expanding public participation in education. The author uses the case of Teach For China to explore the broader theme of the mobility of education models between contexts characterized by neoliberalism and those characterized by strong state control. Transnational advocacy networks are increasingly influential in the education policy-making process. These networks, comprised of entrepreneurs and education corporations, think tanks, philanthropists, and government agencies, facilitate the global mobility of policy models. It is widely accepted that an education model should not be transplanted from one context to another without careful consideration of how contextual differences might impact the model's effectiveness. The book explores the argument that the same model is not only quantitatively different in terms of effectiveness but that models can play qualitatively different roles in neoliberal and strong state contexts, sometimes moving education reform in opposite directions. The book will appeal to anyone interested in global teacher education reform and equity in education.

Multiculturalism, Chinese Identity, and Education Jason Cong Lin, 2022-11-02 In Chinese societies, Chinese identity is an important yet controversial topic. This book examines official understandings of Chinese identity in Mainland China and Hong Kong, exploring how the latest governments of Mainland China and Hong Kong conceptualize Chinese identity, how government-endorsed textbooks frame it in different subjects, and how a multicultural approach can enhance understanding of identity in both societies Using content analysis to support his theoretical arguments Lin offers an in depth updated and detailed picture of how the governments of Mainland China and Hong Kong and their endorsed textbooks encourage people in these societies to respond to the question of who are we He also elaborates on how the current approach to understanding Chinese identity can be harmful and examines how a multicultural approach could better fit these Chinese contexts and enhance understanding of who are we Given that the question of identity causes trouble everywhere and many countries are debating approaches to understanding diverse identities in their own societies this book provides valuable insights into the Chinese perspective to allow readers to more fully understand global frameworks of identity This book will interest researchers and students in the fields of multiculturalism multicultural education national identity identity politics and China and Hong Kong studies

Plural Masculinities Sofia Aboim, 2016-04-22 Plural Masculinities offers a contemporary portrait of the plural dynamics and forms of masculinity emphasizing the multiple even contradictory pathways through which men are remaking their identities Proceeding from the premise that it is impossible to fully understand masculinity without considering its connection with family change and women s change it places men and masculinities within the realm of family life examining men s practices and discourses in their relationships with women and their changing femininities Combining an empirical study based in Portugal with cross national analyses of attitudes towards ideal gender arrangements in Europe and the USA this book examines the various ways in which men come to define their identities and will appeal to those working in the fields of masculinities gender studies and the sociology of the family

Declarations of Interdependence Kirsten Anker, 2016-05-13 This book takes up the postcolonial challenge for law and explains how the problems of legal recognition for Indigenous peoples are tied to an orthodox theory of law Constructing a theory of legal pluralism that is both critical of law s epistemological and ontological presuppositions as well as discursive in engaging a dialogue between legal traditions Anker focusses on prominent aspects of legal discourse and process such as sovereignty proof cultural translation and negotiation With case studies and examples principally drawn from Australia and Canada the book seeks to set state law in front of its own reflection in the mirror of Indigenous rights drawing on a broad base of scholarship in addition to legal theory from philosophy literary studies anthropology social theory Indigenous studies and art As a contribution to legal theory the study advances legal pluralist approaches not just by imagining a way to make space for Indigenous legal traditions but by actually working with their insights in building theory The book will be of value to students and researchers interested in Indigenous rights as well as those working in the areas of socio legal studies legal pluralism and law and cultural diversity
