K. Hume, 2013-11-12 Originally published Great Britain Headline Review 2009 Visions of Dystopia in China's New Historical Novels Jeffrey C. Kinkley, 2014-11-18 The depiction of personal and collective suffering in modern Chinese novels differs significantly from standard Communist accounts and many Eastern and Western historical narratives Writers such as Yu Hua Su Tong Wang Anyi Mo Yan Han Shaogong Ge Fei Li Rui and Zhang Wei skew and scramble common conceptions of China's modern development deploying avant garde narrative techniques from Latin American and Euro American modernism to project a surprisingly un-Chinese dystopian vision and critical view of human culture and ethics. The epic narratives of modern Chinese fiction make rich use of magical realism, surrealism and unusual treatments of historical time. Also featuring graphic depictions of sex and violence as well as dark raunchy comedy, these novels reflect China's recent history re-presenting the overthrow of the monarchy in the early twentieth century and the resulting chaos of revolution and war, the recurring miseries perpetrated by class warfare during the dictatorship of Mao Zedong and the social dislocations caused by China's industrialization and rise as a global power. This book casts China's highbrow historical novels from the late 1980s to the first decade of the twenty-first century as a distinctively Chinese contribution to the form of the global dystopian novel and consequently to global thinking about the interrelations of utopia and dystopia. Beowulf to Bernard Shaw Frederic S. Delmer, 1911 The Heir M.G. David, 2016-07-15 For sixteen idyllic years, nineteen-year-old Kayla has lived with her adopted family, Mona Brock and their son Kale, in the bucolic village of Ilandry. But the idyll ends in one horrific day when Ilandry is attacked by grotesque green men who savagely murder everyone in sight. To her own amazement, when Kayla finds herself threatened, a blinding light blasts forth from her and instantly incinerates her attackers to ash. Rushing home with Kale and Jared, a little boy who is the only other survivor, they discover Brock dying and Mona already gone. With his last breath, Brock reveals that Kayla is their queen and that Kale must protect her and help her to find the gateway to her kingdom. Grief-stricken and afraid, Kayla, Kale and little Jared set off on a quest that takes them deep into a mystical world of surprising magical creatures amongst a gathering evil. When unexpected allies appear, led by a powerful elven commander, Kayla's life is further complicated by romantic turmoil that leaves her torn between two loves. Despite their peril, she begins to discover and develop her own astonishing powers. Day by day, she draws closer to her destiny as queen of the realm stolen from her as a child. Children of the Dark House: Text and Context in Faulkner Polk, Noel, 1998 Polished and refitted into a new critical matrix, these essays by a distinguished Faulkner editor and scholar in no way resemble the casual self-anthologizing often encountered. Polk's stature as a critic meshes neatly with his work as an editor; his patent joy at the very sight of Faulkner manuscripts is inspiring, and his professed commitment to Freudian readings is borne lightly that is expressed in sensible, jargon-free discourse that is both witty and brilliant. J. M. Ditsky, Choice. First published in 1996, this book by a major scholar of William Faulkner's writings collects choice. The Oxford Guide to Plays Michael

Breaking Ground Sara Dickinson, 2006-01-01 Breaking Ground examines travel writing's contribution to the development of a Russian national culture from roughly 1700 to 1850 as Russia struggled to define itself against Western Europe Russian examples of literary travel writing began with imitative descriptions of grand tours abroad but progressive familiarity with the West and with its literary forms gradually enabled writers to find other ways of describing the experiences of Russians en route Blending foreign and native cultural influences writers responded to the pressures of the age to Catherine II Napoleon and Nicholas I for example both by turning inward to focus on domestic touring and by rewriting their relationship to the West This book tracks the evolution of literary travel writing in this period of its unprecedented popularity and demonstrates how the expression of national identity the discovery of a national culture and conceptions of place both Russian and Western European were among its primary achievements These elements also constitute travel writing's chief legacy to prose fiction breaking ground for the later masterpieces of writers such as Turgenev Dostoevsky and Tolstoy For literary scholars historians and other educated readers with interests in Russian culture travel writing comparative literature and national identity
