Improving Service Learning Practice Improving Service Learning Practice:

Improving Service-Learning Practice Susan Root, Jane Callahan, Shelley H. Billig, 2005-11-01 This fifth book in the Advances in Service Learning Research series continues to expand the discussion of service learning research and practice. The chapters were selected through a refereed blind review process from papers presented at the 4th Annual International K-12 Service Learning Research Conference held October 2004 in Greenville, South Carolina. The chapters focus on topics that address a variety of issues in higher education and teacher education and are organized into four sections: The Future of Service-Learning. Jean R. Strait, Marybeth Lima, 2023-07-03 As a new generation of practitioners engages with service learning at a time when higher education faces questions about learning outcomes and costs and in the context of such issues as globalization and the environment, this book poses important questions about practice, institutional sustainability, and future directions. Among these are: What counts as service learning? What value does it bring to institutions? Is it appropriate for all students? How is globalization impacting service learning? Divided into three thematic parts, this book successively covers institutional and administrative issues, service learning as a springboard for research, and presents new practices that address emerging challenges and changing student populations. The contributors review how different institutional types have structured their service learning activities, address the issue of centralization or decentralization, propose better ways to form community partnerships, consider promotion and tenure implications, postulate framing service learning and community engagement as scholarship, and examine service learning as a springboard for research. Further chapters offer a new blueprint for funding to achieve sustainability, examples of international service learning from a European perspective, a case study and framework for using online formats to extend the reach of a program, raise the urgent issue of the experiences and contributions of underrepresented students, and present the rationale and processes for developing effective student-led evaluation of programs. Creating Our Identities in Service-Learning and Community Engagement Shelley H. Billig, Barbara A. Holland, Barbara E. Moely, 2009-11-01 In this volume in the IAP series on Advances in Service Learning Research, top researchers present recent work studying aspects of program development, student and community outcomes, and future research directions in the field of service learning and community engagement. These chapters, selected through a rigorous peer review process, are based on presentations made at the annual meeting of the International Research Conference on Service Learning and Community Engagement held in October 2008 in New Orleans. This volume features efforts in research and practice to support and expand service learning and engaged scholarship in both K-12 and higher education. Models of effective partnerships between institutions of higher education and their community partners are developed in chapters looking at relationships between campus and community in terms of partnership identity or in terms of shared understanding by campus and community partners. Outcomes for K-12 and college students engaged in service learning are the focus of several studies. The impact of high quality service learning on K-12 student achievement and school related behaviors is described Racial identity theory provides a useful frame for understanding developing student conceptualizations while another chapter emphasizes aspects of self exploration and relationship building as bases for gains in student attitudes and skills In a final section chapters deal with service learning and community engagement as a coherent research field with a distinct identity reviewing current work and proposing directions for future research

An Adventure in Service-Learning Anto T. Kerins,2016-04-08 An Adventure in Service Learning argues that education can provide not just knowledge and skills but it can also encourage the development of values and responsibility Service Learning is a teaching method unlike any other It allows students to use their classroom theory to help others through relevant service or volunteering activity In so doing it gives students the opportunity to use the experiences of helping others to strengthen their understanding of subject material Service learning is like a bridge that connects education with the outside world It breathes life and clarity into any subject and better prepares students for life after college An Adventure in Service Learning is a well written and easy to read book It introduces the newcomer to service learning and provides the seasoned practitioner with an important analysis of this most interesting of teaching methods Its discussion of learning and the role of higher education will interest educationalists and its consideration of service will be important to those who are concerned about community A passionate belief in education and its possibilities permeates An Adventure in Service Learning The book examines service learning in project management leadership and management consultancy and provides readers with an understanding of how the method can work in any subject or discipline It clarifies the need for community and discusses the nature and possibilities of what it means to be human The book will help to renew and reinvigorate practitioners policy makers and the education system as a whole

Enhancing Curricula with Service Learning Models Valarmathi, Sharon,Kareem, Jacqueline,Tantia, Veerta,Babu, Kishore Selva,Lucas, Patrick Jude,2024-05-20 In today s digital age technological advancements permeate every sector especially higher education However higher education must go beyond merely integrating AI into the curriculum Additionally it needs to prioritize educating students about societal issues Integrating service learning into higher education curriculums however is a significant challenge facing schools today There is a need for comprehensive research on its effectiveness and guidance on institutionalizing it effectively This hampers its potential to foster civic engagement and social responsibility among students With clear strategies and best practices institutions can implement service learning programs that benefit all stakeholders Enhancing Curricula with Service Learning Models provides a comprehensive blend of theoretical frameworks practical experimentation and real world examples to guide educators administrators and policymakers in fostering profound student engagement It emphasizes the role of emerging educational paradigms like service learning in instilling a sense of civic duty and purpose in students By enriching the educational dialogue with an emphasis on the pivotal role of student engagement in creating transformative and purposeful learning experiences this book empowers educators and institutions to create impactful and sustainable programs

Scholarship for Sustaining Service-Learning and Civic Engagement Shelley H. Billig, Melody A. Bowdon, Barbara A.
