Lucy To Language The Benchmark Papers:

Lucy to Language British Academy, 2014      The Earliest Europeans Robert Hosfield, 2020-05-31 The Earliest Europeans explores the early origins of man in Europe through the perspective of a year in the life of hominins in the Lower Palaeolithic, coping with the year-round practical challenges of mid-latitude Europe with its distinctive temperatures, seasonality patterns, and available resources. Current research has provided increasingly robust archaeological and Quaternary Science records, but there are ongoing uncertainties as to both the earliest Europeans' specific survival strategies and behaviours and the character of their dispersals into Europe. In short, how sustained and successful were the individual phases of European occupation by Lower Palaeolithic hominins, and what sorts of human were they? Using a season-by-season chapter structure to explore, for example, the contrasting demands and opportunities of winter versus summer survival, Hosfield explores how foods and other resources would vary across the four seasons in quantity and quality, and the resulting implications for hominin behaviours. Text boxes provide the background on key issues, and the book draws on a range of supporting evidence, including technology (e.g. the nature of Lower Palaeolithic stone tools, the evidence for organic tools), hominin life history (e.g. the length of infant dependency, the nature of parenting, the implications of different mating models), the Social Brain Hypothesis, cognitive studies (e.g. brain scanning research into possible planning capabilities and potential bias in the archaeological record, e.g. in terms of what is and isn't preserved). By testing the likelihood of different scenarios by comparing short-term site-based insights with long-term regional trends, Hosfield is able to put forward ideas on how our earliest European ancestors survived and what their lives were like.

Evolutionary Processes in the Natural History of Religion Hansjörg Hemminger, 2021-09-22 The study of religion by the humanities and social sciences has become receptive for an evolutionary perspective. Some proposals model the evolution of religion in Darwinian terms or construct a synergy between biological and non-Darwinian processes. The results, however, have not yet become truly interdisciplinary. The biological theory of evolution in form of the Extended Evolutionary Synthesis (EES) is only sparsely represented in theories published so far by scholars of religion. Therefore, this book reverses the line of view and asks how their results assort with evolutionary biology. How can the subject area religion be integrated into behavioral biology? How is theory building affected by the asymmetry between the scarce empirical knowledge of prehistoric religion and the body of knowledge about extant and historic religions? How does hominin evolution in general relate to the evolution of religion? Are there evolutionary pre-adaptations? Subsequent versions of evolutionary biology, from the original Darwinism to EES, are used in interdisciplinary constructs. Can they be integrated into a comprehensive theory? The biological concept most often used is co-evolution in form of a gene-culture co-evolution. However, the term denotes a process different from biological co-evolution. Important EES concepts do not appear in present models of religious evolution (e.g. neutral evolution, evolutionary drift, evolutionary constraints, etc.). How to include them into an interdisciplinary approach? Does the cognitive science of religion (CSR) harmonize with behavioral biology and the brain sciences Religion as part of human culture is supported by a complex multi level behavioral system How can it be modeled scientifically The book addresses graduate students and researchers concerned about the scientific study of religion and biologist interested in interdisciplinary theory building in the field     United States Law and Policy on Transitional Justice Zachary D. Kaufman,2017-01-02 In United States Law and Policy on Transitional Justice Principles Politics and Pragmatics Zachary D Kaufman explores the U S government s support for or opposition to certain transitional justice institutions By first presenting an overview of transitional justice options such as war crimes tribunals and then analyzing six historical case studies Kaufman evaluates why and how the United States has pursued particular transitional justice options since World War II     Marking Place Jonathan Last,2022-01-11 Much archaeological work is concerned with identifying gaps in our knowledge and developing strategies for addressing them we perhaps spend less time thinking about how research should proceed when we already know relatively speaking quite a lot The program of dating causewayed enclosures in southern Britain that was published in 2011 as Gathering Time Oxbow Books gave us a new more precise chronology for many individual sites as well as for enclosures as a whole and as a consequence a far better sense of their significance and place in the story of the British Early Neolithic Arguably causewayed enclosures are now the best understood type of Neolithic monument Yet work continues and in the last few years new discoveries have been made older excavations published and further work undertaken on well known sites Viewing this research within the new framework for these monuments allows us to assess where our understanding of enclosures has got to and where the focus of future research should lie This volume originates from a Neolithic Studies Group meeting held in November 2019 which aimed firstly to showcase and explore the wide range of current work on causewayed enclosures and related sites and secondly to assess what we still want to know about these sites in light of the monumental achievement of Gathering Time The papers collected here comprise reports on recent development led fieldwork academic research and community projects and the volume concludes with a reflection by the authors of Gathering Time     Islamic Ecumene David S. Powers,Eric Tagliacozzo,2023-11-15 The essays in Islamic Ecumene address the ways in which Muslims from Morocco to Indonesia and from sub Saharan Africa to the steppes of Uzbekistan are members of a broad cultural unit Although the Muslim inhabitants of these lands speak dozens of languages represent numerous ethnic groups and practice diverse forms of Islam they are united by shared practices and worldviews shaped by religious identity To highlight these commonalities the co editors invited a team of scholars from a wide range of disciplines to examine Muslim societies in comparative and interconnected ways The result is a book that showcases ethics education architecture the arts modernization political resistance marriage divorce and death rituals Using the insights and methods of historians anthropologists literary critics art historians political scientists and sociologists Islamic Ecumene seeks to understand Islamic identity as a dynamic phenomenon that is reflected in the multivalent practices of the more than one billion people across the planet who identify as Muslims

The Kurds and the Politics of Turkey Deniz Çifçi, 2019-08-08 The Kurds constitute the largest stateless nation in the world Their position in Turkey attracts attention both within the country and internationally particularly focusing on the demand for Kurdish independence Yet since the 1990s new Kurdish parties have formed within Turkey who have a variety of ideologies and demands that go beyond and differ in opinion on the question of independence Much of the present literature on the topic looks at the Kurds of Turkey as a homogenous group with unified political demands which over simplifies their position within the political backdrop of Turkey This book seeks to provide nuance and depth to the current debate on Kurdish political agency and presence in Turkey Presently the Kurds political demands can be classified into four categories democratic autonomy their cultural rights to be granted federalism territorial autonomies and independence creation of a Kurdish nation state In a broad sense these models can also be ordered into two categories territorial political models federalism and independence and non territorial political models democratic autonomy and cultural rights Considering the diversity within the Kurdish community intertwinement of tribal ethnic and national identity and differences in their language religion and ideology there are several contributing factors for the emergence of the current varied political demands of Kurds By explaining variation among the Kurds political demands through close analysis of existing at emerging parties this study challenges a deterministic approach to the Kurds which currently dominates the discourse

Our Tribal Future David R. Samson, 2023-05-30 Winner of the 2023 Balsillie Prize for Public Policy An astounding and inspiring look at the science behind tribalism and how we can learn to harness it to improve the world around us What do you think of when you hear the word tribalism For many it conjures images of bigotry xenophobia and sectarian violence Others may envision their own tribe family friends and the bonds of loyalty that keep them together Tribalism is one of the most complex and ancient evolutionary forces it gave us the capacity for cooperation and competition and allowed us to navigate increasingly complex social landscapes It is so powerful that it can predict our behavior even better than race class gender or religion But in our vast modern world has this blessing become a curse Our Tribal Future explores a central paradox of our species how altruism community kindness and genocide are all driven by the same core adaptation Evolutionary anthropologist David R Samson engages with cutting edge science and philosophy as well as his own field research with small scale societies and wild chimpanzees to explain the science ethics and history of tribalism in compelling and accessible terms This bold and brilliant book reveals provocative truths about our nature Readers will discover that tribalism cannot and should not be eliminated entirely to do so would be to destroy what makes us human But is it possible to channel the best of this instinct to enrich our lives while containing the worst of its dangers

The Colobines Ikki Matsuda, Cyril C. Grueter, Julie A. Teichroeb, 2022-02-24 Covering colobine biology behaviour ecology and conservation this book summarises current knowledge of this fascinating group of primates

Human Evolution Robin Dunbar, 2014-05-01 What makes us human How did we develop language thought and culture Why did we survive and other human species fail The past 12 000 years represent the only time in the sweep of human history when there has been only one human species How did this extraordinary proliferation of species come about and then go extinct And why did we emerge such intellectual giants The tale of our origins has inevitably been told through the stones and bones of the archaeological record yet Robin Dunbar shows it was our social and cognitive changes rather than our physical development which truly made us distinct from other species
