

Reassembling the Rear Bushes

1. Install the rear bushes (marked C20 and C21) into the undershield end of the body.
2. The C-shaped nut on the bushes must be on the side of the body with the compression flange.

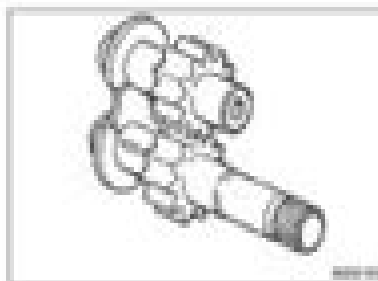

3. The diagram to the right shows the location of the drive shaft and the front bushes and seals installed.

Fixturing with the Seal Cover

Use the seal cover to temporarily fix the parts as they are reassembled. Place the seal cover on its back and use the undershield end of the body against it so that the details are pointing up.

Reassembling the Balance Plate

1. Slide the drive shaft and drive gear of the silver shaft together and into the balance plate in its original position.
2. The two grooves in the plate must be in the low-pressure side of the pump (the side where the body faces next to a piston). With the drive shaft secured in place, these grooves will be on the left-hand side as shown for the counter-rotation rotation.

Reassembling the Gear Pair

1. Fit the key into the keyway in the drive shaft and then carefully fit the gear over the key. Fit the second gear on the silver shaft.
2. Keeping the gear pair together carefully feed the assembly into the body frame with the drive shaft positioned as previously shown.

*Premium pump configurationStandard pump configurationReassembling the Front Bushes

Slide the front bushes (C20 and C21) into their original frame, remembering that the C-nut must be on the side of the body with the pump control flange. They must match the rear end bushes.
