Keeping Poultry And Rabbits On Scraps:

Keeping Poultry and Rabbits on Scraps Alan Thompson, Claude Goodchild, 2008-11-06 First issued in 1941 when the national crisis made it essential for every scrap of kitchen waste and spare time to be used for increasing the nation's food resources this book enabled the meagre official wartime rations to be supplemented in thousands of homes by a regular supply of eggs and meat at a minimum of trouble and expense It now reappears in response to many requests to play its part in the hardly less urgent food production drive of peacetime Everything that the small scale raiser of rabbits or of poultry whether for egg production or for table use needs to know is here buying housing feeding breeding diseases are all fully dealt with by experts the instructions being given in simple and practical language for the beginner Keeping Poultry and Rabbits on Scraps was originally reissued after the war in 1949 Here it is once again a facsimile edition with all the delightful original illustrations and advice to keep your chickens and rabbits happy whether they be in a city garden or roaming in a farm yard

Keeping Poultry and Rabbits on Scraps Alan Thompson, 1943 Keeping Poultry and Rabbits on Scraps Alan Prescott Thompson, C. H. Goodchild, 1941 Keeping Poultry and Rabbits on Scraps. By Alan Thompson and Claude H. Goodchild. [With Portraits.]. Alan THOMPSON (Editor of "Poultry Farmer."), 1941 The Spade as Mighty as the Sword Daniel Smith, 2013-02-25 The little known history of the Garden Front Britain's wildly successful vegetable growing campaign during WWII A fascinating story Northern Echo After food rationing was introduced in 1940 and German U boats began threatening merchant shipping bringing in essential foodstuffs the Ministry of Agriculture decided something had to be done to make the kitchens of Britain more self sufficient The result was an amazingly effective campaign Dig for Victory encouraging every man and woman to turn their garden or even the grass verge in their street over to cultivating vegetables By 1942 half the population were taking part and even the Royal Family had sacrificed their rose beds for growing onions Now Daniel Smith tells the full story of this remarkable wartime episode when spades forks and bean canes became weapons the ordinary citizen could take up against the enemy It had tangible benefits for the war effort in that shipping could be reallocated for munitions instead of food imports as well as for the health of the nation in encouraging a diet of fresh fruit and veg The campaign also created unexpected celebrities like C H Middleton whose wartime BBC radio talks on gardening reached a vast audience and even sowed the seeds for the modern allotment movement Ultimately it is a war story without fighting or killing one that shows how even The Little Man with the Spade in the words of the Minister for Agriculture at the time did his bit for Victory Engaging The Sunday Times An inspirational account Lancashire Evening Post
