Kena Upanishad De Gendering The Text Retranscribing The Upanishads Volume 2:

ISA Upanishad Tapati Bharadwaj, 2015-08-07 This rendition of an Upanishadic text is but a part of a larger series the aim of this work is to construe Hindu religious texts as literature and examine them within a gendered inflected analytical framework What prevents us from examining the Upanishadic or the Vedic texts within a literary or a gendered perspective If the basis of religion is revealed knowledge which was made evident to men then is it not obvious that these notions of the Absolute Being would but be defined within gender inflected terminologies The personal gender biases of men would affect and predetermine how the notions of the Supreme Being were written about Extracts from the ISA UPANISHAD 2 By doing karma indeed should one wish to live here for a hundred years For a person such as you who wants to live thus there is no way other than this whereby karma may not cling to you 6 S he who sees all beings in the Self itself and the Self in all beings feels no hatred by virtue of that realization 8 S he is all pervasive pure bodiless without wound without sinews taintless untouched by sin omniscient ruler of mind translucent and self existent s he has duly allotted the respective duties to the eternal years i e to the eternal creators called by that name Katha Upanishad. De-Gendering Hinduism. Tapati Bharadwaj, 2015-08-15 This rendition of an Upanishadic text is but a part of a larger series the aim of this work is to construe Hindu religious texts as literature and examine them within a gendered inflected analytical framework What prevents us from examining the Upanishadic or the Vedic texts within a literary or a gendered perspective If the basis of religion is revealed knowledge which was made evident to men then is it not obvious that these notions of the Absolute Being would but be defined within gender inflected terminologies The personal gender biases of men would affect and predetermine how the notions of the Supreme Being were written about Let me explain with an example from an Upanishad In the Aitareya Upanishad the first stanza reads in the following manner Om In the beginning this was but the Absolute Self alone There was nothing else whatsoever that winked It thought Let Me create the world We have to keep in mind that the Vedic texts are partially truthful they are correct in their explanations on the notion of Absolute Consciousness which becomes matter and there is no gender ascribed to this Absolute Being The Absolute Self is denoted within gender neutral terms and is referred to as It But there is a slippage which occurs in the Vedic texts making these texts suspect it reveals the fact that those who were writing about this kind of revealed divine knowledge were men and their interests are evident in how the notion of Absolute Consciousness is defined and described In the same Vedic text we will find gender specific characteristics of the Absolute Being The second stanza of the Aitareya Upanishad reads in the following manner He created these worlds viz ambhas marici mara and apah That which is beyond heaven is ambhas Heaven is its support The sky is marici The earth is mara The worlds that are below are the apah A shift occurs whereby It becomes He and we all assume and accept that the Absolute Being has to be male To follow this statement to its conclusion we can state that as the Vedic texts equate the Absolute Self with the masculine men are seen as being agents in the second part of the Aitareya Upanishad the first stanza
