Bernard Carlson, Erik M Conway, 2024-01-08 This book drawing on fresh scholarship investigates electrification in new places and across different time periods While much of our understanding of electrification as a historical process is based on the seminal work done by Thomas P Hughes in Networks of Power 1983 the scholars in this volume expand and revise Hughes systems approach to suggest that electrification is a heterogeneous and contingent process Moreover the contributors suggest that the conquest of the world by electricity remains incomplete despite more than a century elapsing Above all though this book provides context for thinking about what lies ahead as humans continue their conquest of the earth through electricity As we become increasingly dependent on electricity to power our lights heat and cool our homes turn the wheels of industry and keep our information systems humming so we are ever more vulnerable when the grid runs into trouble Chapter Surveying the Landscape The Oil Industry and Alternative Energy in the 1970s is available open access under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License via link springer.com Electrical Manufacturing, 1949 Machine Design, 1965

The State and Business in the Major Powers Robert Millward,2013-03-12 In the 19th and early 20th centuries the state emerged as a major player in the economies of the Western World This important new volume provides an economic history for the period 1815 1939 of state business relations in the major powers France Germany Japan Russia UK and the USA The book challenges the traditional story that the scale of state intervention reflected the degree to which each country was ideologically committed to laissez faire and which also tended to assume that governments were interested in economic growth and raising average living standards Robert Millward gives a rather different perspective arguing that the scale of state intervention and the differences across countries were motivated more by considerations of external defence and internal unification than by any notions of promoting economic growth or adherence to laissez faire This book provides for the first time an integrated economic history of these state business relations in the major powers in the period 1815 1939 and offers a completely new perspective on the links between tariff policies state enterprise in manufacturing the treatment of the peasantry regulation of railways taxation of the business sector policies on cartels trusts and competition
