and time scales Stereo extends the scope of DIC to non planar cases which are more representative of industrial use cases With the development of tomography digital volume correlation now provides access to volumetric data enabling the study of the inner behavior of materials and structures However the use of DIC data to quantitatively validate models or accurately identify a set of constitutive parameters remains challenging One of the reasons lies in the compromises between measurement resolution and spatial resolution Second the question of the boundary conditions is still open Another reason is that the measured displacements are not directly comparable with usual simulations Finally the use of full field data leads to new computational challenges
