Identifying Consumption Subjects And Objects In Consumer Society:

Identifying Consumption Robert G. Dunn, 2008-06-15 Identifying Consumption illustrates how an individual's buying habits are shaped by the dynamics of the consumer marketplace and thus how consumption and identity inform each other. Robert Dunn brings together the various theories of spending and develops a mode of analysis concentrating on the individual subjectivity of consumption. By doing so he addresses how we spend and its relationship with status and lifestyle. Dunn provides a comprehensive guide to the study of modern consumer behavior before summarizing and critiquing the major theories of consumption. At this juncture he proposes a method of analysis that focuses on the significance of status and lifestyle in social relations that can help explain how the consumer marketplace is shaped. He concludes by raising issues about different ways of consuming and the relationship between consumption and identity.

Identifying Consumption Robert G. Dunn, 2008-06-28 A challenging new theoretical approach to the study of consumption and identity. Digital Connectivity and Music Culture Mary Beth Ray, 2017-10-02 This book explores how the rise of widely available digital technology impacts the way music is produced, distributed, promoted, and consumed, with a specific focus on the changing relationship between artists and audiences. Through in-depth interviewing, focus group interviewing, and discourse analysis, this study demonstrates how digital technology has created a closer, more collaborative, fluid, and multidimensional relationship between artist and audience. Artists and audiences are simultaneously engaged with music through technology and technology through music while negotiating personal and social aspects of their musical lives. In light of consistent active engagement, rising co-production, and collaborative community experience, this book argues we might do better to think of the audience as accomplices to the artist.

Challenging Addiction in Canadian Literature and Classrooms Cara Fabre, 2016-11-14 In the richly interdisciplinary study Challenging Addiction in Canadian Literature and Classrooms, Cara Fabre argues that popular culture in its many forms contributes to common assumptions about the causes and personal and social implications of addiction. Recent fictional depictions of addiction significantly refute the idea that addiction is caused by poor individual choices or solely by disease. Through the connections the authors draw between substance use and poverty, colonialism, and gender-based violence, with particular interest in the pervasive myth of the Drunken Indian, Fabre asserts that these novels reimagine addiction as social suffering rather than individual pathology or moral failure. Fabre builds on the growing body of humanities research that brings literature into active engagement with other fields of study, including biomedical and cognitive behavioural models of addiction, medical and health policies of harm reduction, and the practices of Alcoholics Anonymous. The book further engages with critical pedagogical strategies to teach critical awareness of stereotypes of addiction and to encourage the potential of literary analysis as a form of social activism.

Media, Ideology and Hegemony, 2018-09-11 Media, Ideology and Hegemony contains a range of topics that provide readers with opportunities to think critically about the new digital world. This includes work on old and new media, on the corporate power structure in Higher Education and the Student Robert Troschitz, 2017-05-08 As one of the pioneers and leading advocates of neoliberalism Britain and in particular England has radically transformed its higher education system over the last decades Universities have increasingly been required to act like businesses and students are frequently referred to as customers nowadays Higher Education and the Student investigates precisely this relation between the changing function of higher education and what we consider the term student to stand for Based on a detailed analysis of government papers reports and speeches as well as publications by academics and students the book explores how the student has been conceptualised within the debate on higher education from the birth of the British welfare state in the 1940s until today It thus offers a novel assessment of the history of higher education and shows how closely the concept of the student and the way we comprehend higher education are intertwined Higher Education and the Student opens up a new perspective that can critically inform public debate and future policy in Britain and beyond The book should be of great interest to scholars researchers and postgraduate students in the fields of higher education educational policy and politics and the philosophy sociology and history of higher education Vietnam's Socialist Servants Minh T. N. Nguyen,2014-08-27 Since Vietnam introduced economic reforms in the mid 1980s domestic service has become an established sector of the labour market and domestic workers have become indispensable to urban life in the rapidly changing country This book analyzes the ways in which the practices and discourses of domestic service serve to forge and contest emerging class identities in post reform Vietnam Drawing on a rich and diverse range of qualitative data including ethnographies interviews and narratives it shows that such practices and discourses are rooted in cultural notions of gender and rural urban difference and enduring socialist structures of feeling which in turn clash with the realities of growing differentiation Domestic workers experiences reveal negotiations with class boundaries actively set by the urban middle class who seek distinction through emerging notions and practices of domesticity These boundaries are nevertheless riddled with gender and class anxiety on the side of the latter partly because of the very struggles and contestations of the domestic workers More broadly Minh T N Nguyen links the often invisible intimate dynamics of class formation in the domestic sphere with wider political economic processes in a post socialist country embarking on marketization while retaining the political control of a party state As a pioneering ethnographic study of domestic service in Vietnam today this book will be of great interest to students and scholars of Southeast Asian culture society social anthropology gender studies human geography and development studies

Consumerism in the Ancient World Justin St. P. Walsh,2013-11-26 Greek pottery was exported around the ancient world in vast quantities over a period of several centuries This book focuses on the Greek pottery consumed by people in the western Mediterranean and trans Alpine Europe from 800 300 BCE attempting to understand the distribution of vases and particularly the reasons why people who were not Greek decided to acquire them This new approach includes discussion of the ways in which objects take on different meanings in new contexts the linkages between the consumption of goods and identity construction and the utility of objects for signaling positive information about their owners to their community The study includes a database of almost 24 000 artifacts from more than 230 sites in Portugal Spain France Switzerland and Germany This data was mapped and analyzed using geostatistical techniques to reveal different patterns of consumption in different places and at different times The development of the new approaches explored in this book has resulted in a shift away from reliance on the preserved fragments of ancient Greek authors descriptions of western Europe remains of monumental buildings and major artworks and toward investigation of social life and more prosaic forms of material culture ADDITIONAL E RESOURCES FOR THIS BOOK ARE AVAILABLE https://digitalcommons.chapman.edu/art_data/1 The Archaeology of the Mediterranean Iron Age Tamar Hodos,2020-09-17 The Mediterranean s Iron Age period was one of
