

Congress in a FLASH

Name: _____

The Powers of Congress

The Constitution also lists the powers Congress has that the other branches and the individual states do not have. These are called enumerated, expressed, or listed powers. The Constitution doesn't go into much detail, though, which often creates controversy about what Congress is actually allowed to do. Depending on how you count them, there are between 17 and 35 powers on the list. Here are a few:

- Create rules on how to become a citizen
- Collect taxes, pay debts, and borrow money
- Regulate commerce (trade) between the states and with other countries
- Coin money and punish counterfeiters
- Punish pirates (!)
- Establish post offices
- Protect patents and copyrights
- Create lower federal courts
- Declare war, raise and support an Army and Navy
- Make any other laws that are "necessary and proper" to carry out the powers in this list

Nancy Pelosi (D-California) is the current Speaker of the House.

Who's In Charge?

In addition to listing the powers of Congress, the Constitution says who is in charge of each chamber. You may be surprised to learn that the vice president of the United States is also the president of the Senate (The VP doesn't get a vote though, except when there's a tie.) But the VP can't always be there, so senators also elect a "president pro tempore" who leads when the VP isn't available. In the House of Representatives, the leader is called the speaker of the House. The representatives vote to decide who their speaker will be. It's an important job—the speaker is second in line to become president of the United States in an emergency, after the Vice President!

Making Laws

Congress makes a law by introducing an idea, discussing and changing it, voting on it, and sending it to the president for approval. The rough draft of a law is called a bill. Bills can start in either chamber of Congress, but the example below starts in the House of Representatives.

1. The Proposal

A representative writes a bill and gets support from others in the House.

2. The Introduction

The bill is assigned a number and is read aloud on the House floor.

3. The Committee Report

The bill is sent to a committee for a close review. If the committee approves, the bill will be sent to all members of the House.

4. The Floor Debate

In the House chamber, members debate whether to support or oppose the bill. The bill is read again, and members suggest changes.

5. The Vote

If changes are made, the bill is read again. Then, the House votes on the bill. Representatives can vote yes, no, or present (if they don't want to vote on that particular bill).

6. The Hand-Off

The bill is sent to the Senate, where it goes through the same debate. Often, changes are made, and the Senate votes to approve the bill with the changes.

7. The Compromise

Members of the House and Senate form a "conference committee" to work out a compromise bill that both chambers can accept.

8. Another Vote

The House and Senate each vote on the compromise bill. The bill can't move on unless both chambers pass the exact same version.

9. To the President!

Finally, the bill lands on the president's desk. Three things could happen:

- The president signs the bill and it becomes law.
- The president ignores the bill. If Congress is in session, the bill automatically becomes law after 10 days. If not, it doesn't.
- The president vetoes the bill. If this happens, Congress can override the veto if 2/3 of the members vote in favor.
