The Making of Identities in Athenian Oratory Jakub Filonik, Brenda Griffith-Williams, Janek Kucharski, 2019-11-27. Focusing on extant speeches from the Athenian Assembly, law, and Council in the fifth and fourth centuries BCE, these essays explore how speakers constructed or deconstructed identities for themselves and their opponents as part of a rhetorical strategy designed to persuade or manipulate the audience. According to the needs of the occasion, speakers could identify the Athenian people either as a unified demos or as a collection of subgroups, and they could exploit either differences or similarities between Athenians and other Greeks and between Greeks and barbarians. Names and naming strategies were an essential tool in the deconstruction of individuals' identities, while the Athenians' civic identity could be constructed in terms of honour, ethnicity, socio-economic status, or religion. Within the forensic setting, the physical location and procedural conventions of an Athenian trial could shape the identities of its participants in a unique, if transient, way. The Making of Identities in Athenian Oratory is an insightful look at this understudied aspect of Athenian oratory and will be of interest to anyone working on the speeches themselves, identity in ancient Greece, or ancient oratory and rhetoric more broadly.

The Construction of Truth in Contemporary Media Narratives about Risk John Gaffey, 2021-04-22. The Construction of Truth in Contemporary Media Narratives about Risk provides a theoretical framework for how, in a post-truth era, media audiences are able to understand and navigate everyday risk. The book examines media risk narratives and explores forms of truth, experiential knowledge, and authority. Using the concept of parrhesia to show how we invest trust in various types of knowledge in a changing media environment, the book demonstrates how we choose between expert and non-expert information when navigating a seemingly risky world. It considers how news media formats have previously engaged audiences through risk narratives and examines how experiential knowledge has come to hold a valuable place for individuals navigating what we are often told is an increasingly risky and uncertain world The book also examines the increasingly precarious position of expert knowledge and examines how contemporary truth games play out between experts and non experts and considers how this extends into the world of online and social media This book will be of interest to those researching or teaching in the areas of criminology sociology media and cultural studies and of interest to readers in professional areas such as journalism and politics
